

Where to have Christmas dinner

Las Vegas meals with holiday spirit

December 19, 2013

Chef Billy DeMarco at La Cave Wine and Food Hideaway has something special for you: grilled black bass with tomato vinaigrette, baby artichoke ravioli and broccoli rabe ($24).

Even if Christmas isn't your thing, the food associated with it should be. From 24-hour joints to fine dining rooms, holiday specials in Vegas will have you catching the yuletide spirit. So before you roast a chestnut over an open fire for Christmas dinner, consider these options:

La Cave Wine and Food Hideaway

For many, wine is a must to get through the holidays. La Cave Wine and Food Hideaway is a cozy spot — hole up in their dim, cellar-like room with a good bottle of red and a table of tapas such as asparagus with jamon Serrano and sunny-side-up egg, or a beef filet and blue cheese flatbread. This is Christmas after all, so chef Billy DeMarco has prepared something special for you: grilled black bass with tomato vinaigrette, baby artichoke ravioli and broccoli rabe ($24). He's even thought of the wine to pair with it — the 2007 Caparzo Brunello di Montalcino Sangiovese ($27). You'll be decking the halls in no time.
